

Kansas City Union Station Massacre Has Been Solved By Justice Department Agents

LOUISVILLE, KY., SOCIETY WOMAN IS KIDNAPED

Abductors Demanding $50,000 For Her Release

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 10.—(P)—Mrs. Berry V. Stoll, wife of a wealthy oil man and daughter of a retired capitalist, was abducted for ransom late today at her home in the fashionable Upper River Road section. A $50,000 ransom was demanded.

There was blood on the floor of the home and Mrs. Fowler Willett, 24, maid, who was found bound and gagged by Mr. Stoll, said the man had beaten Mrs. Stoll in a struggle with her and at the point of a pistol had bound the maid to a chair. The hands of Mrs. Stoll, a slender brunette, who is 26 years old, were bound with tape.

Stoll who discovered the maid when he returned home shortly after 5 o'clock later issued a statement addressed to the kidnaper:

"Berry Stoll has just found the note regarding the ransom and arrangements are being made accordingly."

Make Threat.

He declined to make its contents public, but it was learned that in addition to demanding money, it contained a threat that William A. Stoll, president of the Stoll Refining Company, was "next on the list." He is a brother of Berry Stoll, the vice-president, and is president of the Louisville Board of Trade. Stoll said the ransom note was found in an upstairs bedroom. The amount of the ransom demanded was revealed by Major William Schmidt, night chief of police.

"When I came in," said Stoll, "I immediately untied the maid from her chair and got from her a description of the man. She said he was very white of face and that his lips were unusually red. I think he must be a former convict. I then ran to the Clark James Clark, Jr.'s home and telephoned the police. I also called William Speed, my wife's father, and others."

"When I came back home I found the note on a bed upstairs and it contained the information about the ransom. Apparently the kidnappers have me confused with my father, C. C. Stoll. The note kept referring to him. Yet the kidnappers must know me. Maybe it was someone in the army with me, because the maid told me the man declared to her: 'If Berry comes in, I'll kill him.'"

Mrs. Willett was on the verge of hysterics when police and reporters arrived. She said the kidnaper gained entrance to the home by pretending he had come there to repair the telephone.

"He hadn't been in the house but a few minutes before he drew a pistol and pointed it at Mrs. Stoll and me," she added. "The first thing he did was to tie me in a chair and stick a gag in my mouth. Then he beat Mrs. Stoll and made off with her to his car."

The maid told investigators Mrs. Stoll was bleeding as she was dragged out of the house. Police found blood stains in the home.

Police started looking for a negro employe on the estate, who usually leaves at about the time the kidnapping occurred. It was thought he might be able to provide some clues.

James Clarke, who lives near the Stoll home, told reporters he saw a large sedan bearing four men in a lane near the Stoll estate shortly after 3 o'clock in the afternoon. One of the men asked him for directions to the Wilcox home, which is nearby. Other residents of the neighborhood reported they had seen cars parked in nearby lanes recently.

Telephone wires in the Stoll home were cut by the kidnaper.

Kansas City, Oct. 10.—(P)—After months of tenacious investigation, the United States Department of Justice today named three outlaws as the killers who slaughtered four officers and a convict with deadly bursts of machine gun fire at the Kansas City Union Station June 17, 1933.

Twelve other persons were named as involved in the slayings, through conspiracy.

Blame for the actual killings was pinned on Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, the southwest's most notorious gunman and bandit; Adam Richetti, Floyd's companion; and Verne C. Miller, former South Dakota sheriff, who was found slain Nov. 29, 1933 near Detroit, apparently a gang victim.

Still At Large

Floyd and Richetti are still at large, but the Department of Justice declared it would press a "vigorous and intensive" search for them. One of the others implicated, two are dead, one is in prison, two are being sought today for arraignment on conspiracy charges, and the others have been released under bond after arraignment on conspiracy charges.

The Star says Jimmy La Carpa, a gangster "broke" the Union Station slaying case and may serve in solving the more recent killing of John LaZia, a political lieutenant of the T. J. Pennington Democratic organization which governs Kansas City.

La Carpa, who has survived two recent attempts of gangsters to kill him, is held in a death cell here for his own protection. He is not suspected of having any connection with the station slayings but the Star says "he is supposed to have been connected with the LaZia murder directly."

The quintuple slaying resulted from an attempt to free Frank Nash, an escaped federal prisoner who was arrested in Hot Springs, Ark.

Otto Reed, chief of police of McAlester, Okla.; William J. Grooms and Frank E. Hermanson, Kansas City detectives, and Nash were killed instantly. Raymond J. Caffery, department of justice agent, received wounds from which he died shortly after being taken to the hospital.

R. E. Vetterli, at that time agent in charge of the Kansas City office of the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice, and F. J. Lacey, another agent, were wounded.

Officials theorized Nash had been slain accidentally by his friends because he was sitting in the front seat of the car, whereas they had expected he would be in the rear seat.

Tracing the intensive investigation it launched immediately after the slayings, the Department of Justice said it had learned Miller, who was a close associate of Nash, had enlisted the aid of Floyd and Richetti in the attempt to free the prisoner.

Solution of the slayings was announced shortly after the Department of Justice in Washington released the information that Richard Tallman Galatas and his wife, Elizabeth, who were arrested in New Orleans Sept. 22, had been brought to Kansas City for arraignment on conspiracy charges growing out of the killings.

Mrs. Galatas pleaded not guilty today when arraigned on a charge of conspiracy to defeat the ends of justice, and her bond was set at $25,000. Galatas did not face formal arraignment, as he has been indicted by a federal grand jury. No bond was fixed for him when he said he preferred to remain in jail.

William Stanley, assistant attorney general, said in Washington investigation had shown it was Galatas who informed Mrs. Nash her husband had been arrested at Hot Springs.

Mrs. Nash then communicated with "Doc" Louis Stacci, proprietor of a badhouse at Melrose Park, Chicago, Stanley said. Galatas accompanied Mrs. Nash to the home of Herb and Esther Farmer at Joplin, Mo., where last minute telephone instructions were given Miller for the attempt to free Nash, the assistant attorney general said.

The 15 persons named by Maurice M. Milligan, United States district attorney, as implicated in the case are Floyd, Richetti, Miller, Harvey Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Farmer, Mrs. Nash, Stacci, Mr. and Mrs. Galatas, Robert C. Brady, Mrs. Louise Conner, Hot Springs, Ark., Frank Mulloy, Kansas City; Wilbur Underhill, and Mrs. Vivian Miller, wife of the slain killer.

CATTLE PURCHASE PLAN EXTENDED

Washington, Oct. 10.—(P)—The government's cattle purchase program in the drought belt was extended again today, this time by an allocation of 7,000 head.

Farm Administrator Chester C. Davis, in disclosing the program would go forward, said the money had been obtained from a reserve fund which still will contain around $1,000,000.

New purchases will be made as follows:

Texas, 125,000 head; Oklahoma, 60,000; Colorado, 60,000; Kansas, 60,000; Missouri, 85,000; Nebraska, 60,000; Nevada, 5,000; New Mexico, 115,000; South Dakota, 26,700; Utah, 10,000; Wyoming, 40,000.

NAMES TRUSTEE

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(P)—Federal Judge James Wilkerson today appointed Daniel C. Green as permanent trustee of the Middle West Utilities company pending its reorganization under Section 77B of the 461 amended bankruptcy act.

$46,681 LINDY RANSOM MONEY ACCOUNTED FOR

Department Of Justice Has Stepped Out Of Case

Washington, Oct. 10.—(P)—Department of justice, announcing it had accounted for $46,681 of the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom money, withdrew from the case tonight and left it in the hands of the New York and New Jersey authorities.

Bruno Hauptmann's deposits in banks and brokerage accounts, the department said, accounted for $26,016, although the records were not complete enough in most cases for actual identification of the money paid in.

The department coupled disclosure of its withdrawal with the reminder that no federal indictment had been sought against Hauptmann. It noted he had been indicted for murder in New Jersey and for extortion in New York.

Otherwise, officials refused to comment on the action, which was taken soon after Governor Lehman of New York had signed extradition papers for Hauptmann's removal to New Jersey.

In some quarters, however, it was pointed out that the department considered its work of investigation virtually completed and was anxious to clarify its relation to any subsequent prosecution.

The department, in a written statement, said that before Hauptmann's arrest, ransom bills totalling $5,095 had been found, and that $14,600 of additional ransom money had been hidden at his home.

When Hauptmann was arrested, the department reported, he had a $20 ransom bill on his person. In addition, it said, $950 of the ransom money had been traced through Hauptmann's purchase of a radio, a pair of field glasses, silverware and the payment of bills.

The department said that three bank and two brokerage accounts had been maintained either in the name of Hauptmann or of his wife.

The records it added, were not sufficiently complete, "save with minor exceptions," to disclose the nature of the actual deposits or the serial numbers or other identifying nature of the bills used.

TRUST, HOLDING COMPANIES HIT BY COMMITTEE

Federal Regulation Given As Remedy For Ills

Washington, Oct. 10.—(P)—The senate banking committee, in a sixth report of its long Wall Street investigation, today hit at investment trusts and holding companies as instruments for concentrating control of wealth in the hands of a few.

As a remedy, it proposed strict federal regulation—extending the control of the government still further over the money centers.

Citing some activities of J. P. Morgan and company; Dillon, Read & company; the Insulls; the Van Swerlens and others in substantiation of its criticism, the committee said the proper corrective might be an act requiring all such corporations to have a federal charter.

"The cure for our corporate ailments, circumvention of the law, investment-trusts and holding company abuses, and interlocking directorates may lie in a national incorporation act," said the report, written under the direction of Ferdinand Pecora.

Federal Charters

Such legislation, expected by some to be put forward by the administration next session, would require corporations doing an interstate business to incorporate under government control instead of getting their charters from the states, as at present.

The committee held that both investment trusts and holding companies were equally liable for accelerating the concentration of the control of wealth. The vast resources of Morgan & company were cited in this connection.

But, it reported, the trusts and holding concerns in operation had lent themselves to operations which, baldly stated, included something close to mulcting the public.

Some specific charges were that: Dillon, Read & company and its associates through the formation of the United States & Foreign Securities Corporation and other investment trusts invested over $5,100,000 to secure control of $90,000,000. Of this latter sum $75,000,000 had been furnished by the public;

Dillon, Read and other concerns made excessive profits through investment trust and holding company operations;

The Goldman-Sachs Trading Corporation in financing the Frosted Foods company in 1929 showed a striking instance of "incompetency or deficiency of integrity of purpose."

The public, the report said, furnished approximately 90 percent of $25,000,000.

President Roosevelt Feels Prices Should Go Higher; Ideas Stir Inflation Talk

Chicago Thief Makes Off With A Human Heart

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(P)—A thief, Zabel Hartle reported to police today, stole a human heart.

And what is more, he related to astounded detectives at the central station, the man who broke into his parked car also made away with:

One human skull, two jars of plants and animals, one model of a human eye, one piece of ear bone, one perch, six liver roots, one pigeon skeleton and one frog.

Most of the loot was sealed in pre-sterilized liquid, he said, and all the articles were museum pieces.

KING'S BODY IS BEING RETURNED TO YUGOSLAVIA

Authorities Claim Kill- ers Passport Was Forged

By Robert B. Parker
(Copyright, 1934, By The Associated Press.)

Marseille, France, Oct. 10.—The bullet-torn body of Alexander, king of Yugoslavia, was started back to his homeland on a destroyer today as authorities announced discovery of definite proof that the Czech passport found on the body of his assassin was forged.

Meanwhile officials at Aix-en-Provence sought two men who stayed at a hotel there two days with the king, tentatively identified as a Croat.

A flower-and-flag-draped coffin on the afterdeck of the Yugoslav Destroyer Dubrovnik carried the body of the ruler, shot down yesterday as he entered France to seal new compact for the preservation of Europe's peace.

The weeping, widowed Queen Marie turned toward Paris to join her eldest son, Peter, Yugoslavia's new king, after a dramatic farewell aboard the vessel. The 11-year-old boy left his English school early in the morning to return home.

A squadron of two French cruisers and six destroyers escorted the Dubrovnik as it swung its prow out into the Mediterranean. Francois Pietri, French minister of navy, was aboard the Colbert, one of the cruisers.

Huge throngs stood on the shore with bared heads—the same throngs that just 24 hours before had sent "Vive Le Roi" roaring out again and again as Alexander came ashore.

A military band, in last salute to the martyred monarch, played the Yugoslav national anthem.

Queen Marie came ashore from the Yugoslav destroyer just before it sailed, after mounting to the afterdeck to bend over the plain oaken coffin trimmed with silver and to kiss the dead king's face.

The queen stood with President Lebrun, her eyes filled with tears, and watched the funeral fleet put to sea before turning to prepare for the trip to Paris tonight to meet young Peter and her mother, the Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania.

Also enroute to Paris to join her were her sister, Princess Ileana of Rumania and the latter's husband, Archduke Anton of Hapsburg, who took off for the French capital in Anton's private plane.

Here in Marseille was Alexander's aunt, the Dowager Princess Nathalie of Montenegro, the sister of his mother, who motored to this city from her home in Antibes.

The toll of the assassin's reached five today with the death of Madame Dubre, one of 15 persons wounded, as physicians indicated their confidence that General Alfonso Joseph Georges, one of those most gravely hurt, would recover.

Meanwhile, authorities continued efforts to identify definitely the 35-year-old fanatic, Petrus Kalemencic, of Zagreb, Yugoslavia, whose modern pistol-like sub-machine gun spread streams of bullets before police sabers and bullets mortally wounded him.

HOLD SUSPECTS

Pekin, Ill., Oct. 10.—(P)—Three men are held without bail in the Tazewell county jail and charged with the death of James Bailey, 26, who died yesterday in a Peoria hospital, allegedly after being beaten in a tavern fight.

Those under arrest are Ellis Carlton, owner of the tavern where the fight is said to have occurred, Aaron Carlton and William Bader.

State's attorney Nathan Elliff said Bailey named the trio as his attackers.

JACK BRITT DIES

East St. Louis, Ill., Oct. 10.—(P)—Jack Britt, 41, listed by police as a lieutenant in the notorious Shelton gang, died today at St. Mary's hospital here.

Britt was twice tried for a $1,000,000 bank robbery at Lincoln, Neb., several years ago, each jury failing to agree. Charges against him subsequently were dismissed, police here understood.

FIRE DESTROYS WAREHOUSE

Metropolis, Ill., Oct. 10.—(P)—The second time in eighteen months a warehouse full of baskets and boxes manufactured by the Roberts Liggett company was destroyed by fire last night.

Damage was estimated at $25,000. Origin of the fire is unknown. The company announced it would rebuild.

By Sam Bledsoe

Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, Oct. 10.—(P)—President Roosevelt made it plain today that he feels prices should go higher and immediately there was speculation as to whether further currency experimentation was planned to bring this about.

The only word forthcoming from the White House was that price developments probably would be a determining factor in future monetary steps.

The price range aimed at by Mr. Roosevelt was not specifically defined. The president was definitely represented as feeling, however, that a further advance was necessary to bring the assets on the nation's balance sheet well ahead of its liabilities.

Once reasonably satisfactory prices are attained, Mr. Roosevelt hopes to stabilize, in order to eliminate the violent fluctuations of the past.

Opposes Runaway

At the same time he is opposed to anything approximating a runaway uphull.

The president feels that while assets now somewhat over balance the debt burden—over a year and a half ago the reverse was that even this is admittedly a matter for argument.

Back in the boom days of 1929, for example, the nation's assets as a whole were from $75,000,000,000 to $150,000,000,000 above the liabilities.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, has not indicated he has any intention of returning to the inflated values of the late 1920's and even the balance in the supposedly baloney days of 1926 does not thoroughly meet with his favor.

The price relation for some commodities in 1926 might be satisfactory, but the figure for other years would be better for other products, in his opinion. In this connection, it was pointed out that the definition of parity price in the agricultural adjustment act is the price relationship of farm commodities to other goods in the 1909-1914 period.

What form or how much, if any, currency experimentation would be resorted to was a matter for conjecture. Bursell, as represented by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, recently sought unsuccessfully Mr. Roosevelt's ideas about currency stabilization.

If there was no reassurance on that score today, the outline of the administration's position was held in some business quarters to be favorable in other matters.

There have been frequent reports in recent months that drastic debt reduction by legislation might be the administration's way of bringing about debt relief.

Mr. Roosevelt's signature of the Frazier-Lemke farm moratorium measure last session, a bill strenuously opposed by investment interests, was brought to mind in this connection.

It was revealed today, however, that proposals for the slashing of debt by the "rule of thumb," or arbitrary cancellation, has already been considered by the administration and rejected as unconstitutional.

Some easing of the debt pressure, however, has been brought about through the farm credit administration; the The Home Owners Loan corporation and legislation such as that for corporate reorganization.

QUINTUPLETS ARE GIVEN SUN-BATH

Callander, Ont., Oct. 10.—(P)—The famous Dionne quintuplet sisters today spent almost an hour out in the sunshine, acquiring a tan to match their curly brown hair and their eyes which also are turning brown.

The change in the color of their eyes, Dr. A. R. Dafeo, their physician, said, adds a sparkle to them. He said he believed all five would have deep brown eyes when they are mature.

The children's hair also is growing darker, the doctor said, but there is no sign of teeth in their tiny mouths although they are 135 days old.

The babies have developed to such an extent that the number of times a day they are fed has been reduced. Previously they were fed every three hours, but now they eat only once every four hours. They get the same total quantity of human milk as before, but take it in greater amounts at each feeding time.

Dr. Dafeo said the little girls acquired a slight sun-tan during yesterday's outing and explained that so far only their faces had been exposed to the sun's rays when they were outdoors. Their faces, he added, "burn evenly all over." He asserted the exposure was healthful.

Four of the babies gained weight today.

BUSINESS FAILURES

New York, Oct. 10.—(P)—A rise to the highest level since the middle of June featured business failures in the United States during the week ended Oct. 4, according to reports to Dun & Bradstreet, which indicated that failures totaled 248 compared with 203 in the preceding week and 263 in the same week last year.

FIRE DESTROYS WAREHOUSE

Metropolis, Ill., Oct. 10.—(P)—The second time in eighteen months a warehouse full of baskets and boxes manufactured by the Roberts Liggett company was destroyed by fire last night.

Damage was estimated at $25,000. Origin of the fire is unknown. The company announced it would rebuild.

FORGOT INSURANCE

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 10.—(P)—For all the nice weather and a good breakfast, W. E. Kerr, druggist, was troubled as he walked to work today. There was something he had meant to do and he just couldn't recall it to mind.

On the floor of his store when he arrived for work was a smashed safe and litter of postage stamps. Fifty dollars was missing. Mr. Kerr had again been robbed, the 14th time in 19 years.

"Now I know what it was," Kerr said through clenched teeth. "I forgot to get burglary insurance."

TELL STORY OF EFFORT TO OMIT HUGE WRITE-OFF

Van Lamont On Stand In Insult Fraud Hearing

By Maurice E. Collins
Associated Press Staff Writer

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(P)—The story of efforts to omit a $3,934,153 write-off from the statements of Corporation Securities company of Chicago was unfolded today in the mail fraud trial of Samuel Insull and 16 men who helped him operate a far-flung utility empire.

A letter inquiring into the legal justification of the omission was placed atop the heap of the prosecution's evidence while Van Lamont, former comptroller of Halsey, Stuart and Co., occupied the witness stand.

Lamont also related that stock purchased by the concern Insull had founded at a cost of $3,900,000 was written up on the books at a value of $15,000,420, and that stock bought at $13,000,000 was written up to a value of $30,000,000.

Further questioning by government attorneys elicited testimony from Lamont that while the corporation was selling its allotment certificates to the public at $75, it was buying them on the open market at $100.

Answers Readily

Lamont, soft-spoken and well poised, readily answered inquiries into the huge and complicated financial transactions, while Insull and his co-defendants sat in intent silence nearby.

The heavy write-off was made on the company's inventory preliminary to the filing of its statement with the Chicago stock exchange in the fall of 1929, and was necessary, a resolution adopted by the board of directors explained, due to the slump in the value of stocks held by the company.

Lamont revealed the corporation's desire to avoid embarrassing reference to it in identifying a letter written by Clarence T. Mac Neille, a defendant and secretary of Halsey, Stuart and Co. to W. J. Parker of the law firm of Schuyler, Weinfield and Hennessy in January of 1930.

In the presence of newspapermen, department aides and his secretary, Joseph Canavan, Governor Lehman without comment affixed his signature to the extradition papers at 5:04 p. m. (E. S. T.).

The New Jersey officials, who went to Albany early today from Trenton prepared for an extradition hearing, left the state capital two hours before the signing on the same train as Hauptmann.

With Captain Lamb were Assistant Attorney General Joseph Lanigan and Anthony M. Hauck, prosecutor of Hudson county—where the indictment charging the kidnap-killing of the Lindbergh baby up to Hauptmann was returned two days ago.

In the Jersey county town of Flemington, county seat of Hunterdon, the trial denouement of one of the most sensational crimes in history will be held if extradition is carried through.

Lanigan and Hauck are prepared to go into court at once to fight the habeas corpus proceedings.

District Attorney Samuel Foley of Bronx county said tonight shortly after the extradition request was granted at Albany that he would go into Bronx county court tomorrow and ask a week's postponement of the trial of the charges that Hauptmann extorted $50,000 ransom from the Lindberghs, even though the man's son was already dead.

Previously, Foley said he would ask for an indefinite postponement.

His statement was interpreted to mean that Jersey officials had anticipated a court test of the extradition and that, if the transfer is held up longer than a week, Foley would proceed with the extortion trial.

FARMERS FAVOR
CORN-HOG PLAN

Cincinnati, Oct. 10.—(P)—Farmers of the middle west are two to one in favor of continuation of the government's corn-hog reduction program, results of the current referendum indicate, Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, said here today.

Indiana farmers are 65 percent in favor of the corn-hog plan, Wallace said; in Iowa the vote indicates nearly a three-to-one majority; in Minnesota the results are about the same, and Nebraska is for it. In Kansas, however, he said, there is an unfavorable reaction.

Prospects for higher live stock prices next year are "very good," Wallace, who is still returning to Washington from a swing through the mid-west, declared.

The population need have no fear of a food shortage, he said, and added farmers of the midwest will "have enough money this winter to serve as a very considerable backlog against the depression in the cities."

WILL PURCHASE CATTLE

Washington, Oct. 10.—(P)—Chester C. Davis, the farm administrator, said today an additional $7,000,000 had been allotted for government purchases of cattle in the drought area.

Davis estimated some 500,000 to 600,000 head could be bought with that amount. He did not designate states in which purchases are to be made.

The Truce Fails

The world seems bent on fighting. Efforts to perfect a truce in the Chicago bus strike failed. The trouble has already cost several lives and has brought confessions that hoodlums were paid $5 a day to chase the passengers off the buses.

Paraguay proposed a truce in the war with Bolivia. The plan came before the League of Nations and was turned down by both the League and Bolivia. In Spain rebels fight to the finish and the revolt is put down, but not settled amicably.

Human nerves seem to be on edge these days, and once they go on a rampage, there seems to be no stopping the uproar that ensues. Apparently men get into desperate situations from which they cannot extricate themselves. Faced with surrender or rebellion, they fight. They seem to feel that there will be no mercy, once they have started a conflict they therefore fight on to a bitter end and take whatever consequences there are.

Surely things have not come to such a pass that nobody will listen to reason, that men cannot sit down together and arrive at some reasonable solution of their problems. Are we so overborne with class hatreds and struggles that the bond of human sympathy and understanding has been broken?

It is true that humanity has suffered much. There has been selfish treatment of groups and heartless struggle for supremacy. But if we are to descend to the plane of the savage and accept the law of the jungle, we must say goodbye to all the ideals of liberty and justice that have been slowly built into the scheme of civilization. On second thought, we had better consent to a truce and in calm deliberation seek a common ground.

His Majesty, The Voter

In Kickatow county, Wash., 296 citizens voted for W. R. Bowman, a dead man. Bowman died after the ballots were printed but news of his death were not lacking. Even so, these voters either had not heard the news, or forgot what they had heard, and voted for a dead man.

We may laugh, but in Morgan county, Ill., citizens once elected to minor offices one man who was an inmate of the state hospital and another who was at the county home. A candidate recently declared that he is surprised to find how many people there are who do not know it is time for him to come before them seeking re-election. They voted for him once, then forgot him and did not know how long his term should be.

It is sad that voters do not keep themselves informed about candidates and election dates. Their ignorance makes it necessary for men who seek office to spend long hours going about their election territories, letting themselves be seen here and there, and shaking hands with people everywhere. If they did not make this sort of campaign, voters would not look for their names on the ballot.

It is the duty of every citizen to vote and to use his best judgment in casting his ballot. He should think for himself and make an effort to get information before he goes to the polls. He should not depend altogether on the candidates' own estimate of themselves, but should know something about them, aside from what they tell him.

If the voter makes an honest effort to vote intelligently, such mistakes as occurred in Washington and in this county can be avoided. It is up to the people to avoid those mistakes if they want their government to have the dignity and efficiency.

Uncle Sam Busy

Often have we seen in headlines the words "Government buys." The latest story tells of the buying of marginal farm lands and the removal of the families of destitute farmers. Most of these people are glad to sell out to the government and move without any help. The remainder, already on relief, have to be moved elsewhere so they can get a new start. It is planned to buy a million acres of these poor lands at about $5 per acre, and use them for parks and forests.

But Uncle Sam has also been buying cattle, hogs, sheep, grain, cotton, and everything for which there is a market. He is one of the heaviest buyers in the nation, in fact he is rated as a first class customer. He buys everything anybody else does not want, even to railroad stock and bonding company shares.

Unfortunately Uncle Sam cannot turn his great purchases into cash again. He cannot make a money profit on his investments. How long he can continue to be the nation's best shopper no one can say, but his purse seems inexhaustible. That's the way it seems, but it really isn't.

Some day Uncle Sam will either have to stop buying or go into business for profit to avoid bankruptcy. If he refuses to stop buying and cannot bring himself to the radical step of going into business, he must levy higher taxes, or inflate his currency to provide more money.

Those who believe there is some magical way out of the situation, without any of these alternatives, not one of them pleasant, can keep on kidding themselves until they are rudely awakened from their dream. They will not spend as much time worrying over the matter, which is some consolation.

A. A. A. Referendum

Taylorville Breeze-Courier It is not always easy to find out what the American farmer thinks about things. For one thing, "he" is a whole section of society, not an individual, and his opinions on any given subject are therefore as varied as the individual opinions of any other group.

It should be interesting, therefore, to follow the referendum the AAA plans to conduct among corn, hog and feed growers. Two questions are to be asked. "Do you favor an adjustment program dealing with corn and hogs in 1935?" and "Do you favor a one-contract-per-farm adjustment program dealing with grains and livestock to become effective in 1936?"

Farmers who did not join the corn-hog program or sign up for crop reduction are to be consulted along with those who accepted the government's plan at the start. For that reason the answers should be of real worth, being a fairly thorough test of agricultural sentiment on some very controversial matters.

SO THEY SAY

White Hall

Several Greene county boys from CCC camps were here to spend the week end with home folks. A truck load of boys from Camp Lemont-Brandon, company 631, came this way Thursday night. Some stopped off at Farmer City, Clinton, Springfield, Jacksonville, White Hall, Carrollton and Jerseyville, and returned to camp Sunday night via the same truck.

The New Deal in Washington

Feeble Gains of A. F. of L. Under NIRA Jar Supporters of Unions . . . Glaring Weakness Shown . . . Rise of Independent Groups Forecast.

By RODNEY DUTCHER Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington—The many friends of organized labor in this administration are groaning rather dismally while they do so.

Figures on A. F. of L. membership, showing an increase in the first full year under NIRA and its encouragement to organize, have arrived with a dull thud.

They offer little or no help to an administration which is trying to educate employers as to the rights of labor—and having a tough time of it.

The A. F. of L. Executive Council has reported a gain of 388,000 dues-paying members over 1933 and a total membership of 2,643,000.

Disregarding President Bill Green's rosy last-year vision of a membership of 25,000,000, it is the breakdown of the figures—which has had little or no publicity that is causing labor students to despair.

About 83,000 of the increase was due to the entrance of Sidney Hillman's Amalgamated Clothing Workers into the Federation. Another 125,000 new members were reported by the International Ladies' Garment Workers.

Other unions showed gains, few of them significant, and there were a number of actual decreases.

Membership Drops

The United Textile Workers who had been claiming a paid-up membership of 300,000, prior to the recent strike, turned up with a voting strength of 28,700 members, as against 15,000 last year.

And the Amalgamated Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, who were threatening boldly to strike not so long ago, reported only 5,500 members as compared with 4,600 last year.

Although President John L. Lewis had been credited heretofore with a prodigious organization campaign, netting hundreds of thousands of new members, he showed up but 300,000, which was no more than his claim a year ago and 100,000 less than he reported in 1931.

It seems that John, like other labor leaders, has been deceiving a lot of the boys from paying dues.

Most astonishing of all, the A. F. of L.'s Federal labor unions, designed to catch workers in previously unorganized industries such as automobiles, showed—there figures being combined with those for directly affiliated local unions—a drop from 71,000 to 51,000.

This despite the Executive Council's cheerful report of a "virtual uprising of workers for union membership."

Spirit Is Stronger Obviously, though the Federation still shows a decline of nearly 350,000 from its 1931 membership, the labor movement and the militancy of workers are much stronger than the figures indicate.

The textile strike showed that. Hundreds of thousands have signed up for union membership, but don't show on the official count because they aren't paying dues.

But critics of the A. F. of L. cite the record to bolster their contention that the A. F. of L. shows complete lack of capacity for organization work, is largely in charge of members whose chief ambition is to hang onto their jobs, is operated on oratory and prefers clutching to the administration's coat-tails to standing on its own feet.

Union labor organization is a fact factor in New Deal policy—at least as long as employers are encouraged to organize. But the administration finds no easy answer to assertions by industrialists that the A. F. of L. represents small minorities and that workers don't want to organize under its banner.

Officials have tried to make this plain to labor leaders. Can anyone, they ask, expect to scare the powerful steel industry with a union membership of 5,500?

Independent Unions Rise Impatience with the A. F. of L. is tempered in some quarters with satisfaction that its weakness, rather than its strength, creates a problem. But it is freely predicted that many new unions independent of the A. F. of L. will be heard from in the next year.

There's much sentiment in the administration for the industrial rather than the craft type of union, which has tied up too many PWA projects by jurisdictional disputes.

While the headlines proclaimed an internal A. F. of L. row at the San Francisco convention involving the Building Trades department, it was recalled here that Secretary Frances Perkins had expected to move her outfit into the new Department of Labor Building last spring.

this administration next to Roosevelt, won his fame as a labor lawyer—with the independent railroad union.

When the administration turned to labor leadership for man power and counsel, in fact, the A. F. of L. gets the crumbs. (Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

WILL ROGERS says:

To The Editor of The Journal-Courier: Chicago, Ill.—We had a ball game, we had a riot, we had Judge Landis hold court right on the field. And we had "Dizzy" Dean. Anywhere "Dizzy" is there is something happening, either for or against. The courtroom scene didn't last long because neither ballplayer had time to call their lawyers, quick. I believe I am the only fellow who talked with both boys in their dressing rooms directly after the game, Medwick, whom I already knew, is a fine boy. And he felt very sorry, said it was just in the excitement of the game that he did it before he realized what he was doing.

And that he had no hard feelings at all toward it, and said there was no nice about it, and said there was no attempt at a fight or argument, and that he thought Medwick had done what he did in the excitement. It was the crowd that wanted to fight not the ballplayers. The Tigers put up a fine fight and darn it I did feel sorry for 'em in their dressing room, nobody slapping 'em on the back, in fact nobody in there but them. Game Mickey Cochrane sitting there just removing bandage after bandage from almost all over himself. Real he men, in a just said "Old 'Diz' had everything." I can applaud a winner as loud as anybody, but somehow a loser appeals to me.

Over in the St. Louis dressing room it was a madhouse. "Dizzy" had on one of those Indian helmets, and a stuffed rubber tiger by the tail. He says "Will the championship remains in Oklahoma." "Pepper" Martin and all the others just plain "nutty." It's been a great series, I used to know all the old time players and it was a reunion for me. "Dizzy" ain't dippy, and "Daffy" ain't daffy, they're plenty smart and fine boys. My old friend Joe E. Brown didn't wound anybody by a handshake. "If he did he must have bit 'em."

Yours, WILL ROGERS. (Copyright, 1934.)

Unique Vicks Formula Is Now Aiding Millions In Preventing Many Colds

Vicks Va-tro-nol—for Nose and Throat—Aids Nature's Functions to Prevent Many Colds—and to Throw Off Colds in the Early Stages

Is Amazingly Successful

Druggists Now Have Combination Samples of Va-tro-nol and other Products Used in Famous Vicks Colds-Control Plan

Each year, increasing thousands of enthusiastic users are broadcasting the good news of Vicks Va-tro-nol. They have proved for themselves its amazing effectiveness in helping them to side-step many annoying colds.

Va-tro-nol is especially designed for the nose and throat—where most colds start. It aids and stimulates the functions provided by Nature—in the nose—to prevent colds, and to throw off colds in the early stages.

Va-tro-nol is easy and convenient to use—any time or place—at home or at work. Just a few drops up each nostril—at the first sign of discomfort in the nose—irritation or dryness, sniffle or sneeze. Used in time, it helps to avoid many a cold entirely.

Relief for "Stuffy Heads"

Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or nasal catarrh) Va-tro-nol penetrates deep into the nasal passages—reduces swollen membranes—clears away clogging mucus—brings comforting relief.

Powerful yet absolutely safe—for both children and adults—Vicks Va-tro-nol contains real medication. Its results cannot be expected from mere "oil drops." Va-tro-nol's effectiveness has been proved in thousands of clinical tests supervised by practicing physicians. Equal effectiveness is shown in its every-day home use—aiding millions to greater freedom from colds.

(Note—for your protection: The remarkable success of Vicks Drops—for nose and throat—has brought scores of would-be imitators. The trademark name "Va-tro-nol" is your protection in getting the original and exclusive Vicks formula. Always ask for Vicks Va-tro-nol. It is available now in two generous sizes—30c and 50c.)

Ideal Companion to Vicks VapoRub

Vicks Va-tro-nol, the unique aid in preventing colds, is the ideal companion to Vicks VapoRub—standby in 26 million homes for treating colds. These twin aids for fewer and shorter colds provide the basic medication of the famous Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds in the home. Full details of the Plan are in each package.

Your druggist has a limited supply of free trial packages of Vicks medications, with complete details for following Vicks Plan. Get your sample package today. If the druggist's supply is exhausted, write to Vicks, 2042 Milton St., Greensboro, N. C., enclosing 3c stamp to cover postage, and a package will be sent you direct.

Jerseyville Ships Out Drouth Cattle

Jerseyville—Drouth cattle are being moved from Jersey county as rapidly as possible. The appraisers began their duties last Wednesday and made rapid progress. Two car loads of the animals were shipped from the local stockyards of the Alton railroad Monday afternoon.

The shipment Monday consisted of sixty-four cattle and four other animals received were condemned as unfit for human consumption.

One of the carloads leaving the stockyards Monday afternoon went to Altamont, Ill., and the other was shipped to Galatia. At those places the cattle will be placed on pasture and feed to prepare them for slaughter as free government beef for the unemployed this winter.

Charles Rue of Delhi and Charles Campbell of Jerseyville have been doing the appraisal work. The cattle received at the stockyards here were better generally than most drouth types.

In many cases the cattle owners have been obliged to dispose of the animals due to shortage of feed and inability to finance loans by which they could obtain enough feed for their entire drove.

Observe Golden Wedding

A large number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen D. Stanley of Jerseyville called at their home Monday, October 8th, to assist in the celebration of their Golden Wedding anniversary.

The Stanley home was open to friends from four to six o'clock in the afternoon and from seven to nine o'clock in the evening.

The dining room of the residence was attractively decorated for the occasion, gold forming an important part in the color scheme. Yellow chrysanthemums were used for floral decorations, and the refreshments appointments were also in keeping with the golden anniversary. The daughters-in-law of the honorees, Mrs. Charles Stanley and Mrs. Clifford Stanley, served assisted by Mrs. Robert E. Clark.

Among the guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. James Parsell of Jerseyville who were the attendants at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley which took place at the home of the bride's parents in Fidelity fifty years ago. A number of the guests at the wedding were also present at the celebration Monday.

Office Force at Picnic

Club at White Hall Has Varied Program

White Hall—The White Hall Domestic Science club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Georgia Johnston on North Main street with twenty members and five guests present.

Miss Johnston was assisted by Mrs. Frank Bridgewater, Mrs. Elmore Dean, Mrs. Martha Moody and Mrs. L. O. Goodrich.

The guests were Mrs. J. F. Toner and Mrs. Mary Shirley of Denver, Colorado; Mrs. Everett Barton of Glade Water, Texas; Mrs. F. N. McLaren and Miss Clarissa Wilcox.

A conservation and health program was given, including bird topics and a talk by Dr. Paul Bauer on "Rabies," which is epidemic here at this time. Dr. Bauer gave a history of rabies and of symptoms, and treatment, and answered numerous questions at the close of his talk, which was very helpful.

Mrs. Allen Brannan read an inspirational poem, "The Jay Bird," by James Whitcomb Riley. She also read a bird poem from an old Edwards Fourth Reader which was more than fifty years old. Roll call was answered by special observation of bird life during the past summer. Mrs. H. B. Anderson read a paper, "Conservation of Bird Life in Illinois," in which she told of bird havens and feeding grounds for migratory birds, and of game laws protecting birds, and how these laws are abused.

Mrs. F. N. McLaren gave two humorous readings which added interest to the program. A demonstration of the preparation of a fowl for food was not given because of illness in the families of those who were to have demonstrated. However, a chicken salad was served with the plate luncheon, which was in keeping with the program.

The November meeting will be a Thanksgiving program at the home of Mrs. L. O. Goodrich on North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hubbard celebrated their twenty-third wedding anniversary at their home west of White Hall, last Sunday. Those present beside the family were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schutz and children; Mrs. Frank Hubbard, Mrs. Robert Osborne and baby. Mr. Hubbard is supervisor of the Walkerville township.

Miss Georgia Johnston was called to St. Louis, Tuesday afternoon, to be at the bedside of her brother, Harry T. Johnston, in Barnes hospital. She was accompanied by Mrs. Ethelyn Tunison. Mr. Johnston entered the hospital Monday for examination and observation, with a possibility of having an operation performed. Details of his condition are lacking here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Evans received word of the birth of a daughter to their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Olin Neighbors, in Houston, Texas, Tuesday morning at 1 o'clock, which weighed eight pounds and was named Cynthia. Later in the day they received another message saying that the child had died at 2:30 the same day. Mrs. Evans left Wednesday for Houston to remain for several weeks.

The child is survived by the parents, and one sister, Patricia, of Houston, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Evans, and Mrs. John Griffin, of White Hall. The mother before her marriage was Miss Catherine Evans of this city.

Mrs. Joseph Deaton suffered a stroke of paralysis Monday at the home of her son, Clyde Deaton near Patterson, but showed some improvement Tuesday. Mrs. Deaton was 80 years old on Wednesday, October 10.

Herschel Pence, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Pence of Hillview is suffering with scarlet fever. He is the second case to be quarantined in Hillview during the past few weeks.

J. L. Vermillion continues to improve from his recent illness at the home of C. I. McCollister on South Main street.

Charles Burch, superintendent of the Concord schools, who has been ill for the past several weeks was able to drive with his family to Hillview Sunday to visit with Mrs. H. W. Garrison and family.

WIENER ROAST AND BRIDGE ENJOYED AT L. DINWIDDIE HOME

Virginia—Mr. and Mrs. Leon Dinwiddie entertained sixteen guests at a 7 o'clock wiener roast and bridge party last night at their farm home north of here.

Prize for high score at bridge was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. William Burkholder, and second prize was received by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Whitfield. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hiles, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Whitaker, Mr. and Mrs. William Burkholder, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Whitfield, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Angier, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Birnbaum, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Dinwiddie.

Three Little Maids Have Auto Accident

Beardstown—Two of Beardstown's "Three Little Maids" were hurt and the third escaped without injuries in an automobile accident which occurred about 11 p.m. Monday night as they were returning home with Miss Pearl Nelson from Farmington where they gave a performance at the homecoming celebration.

Margaret Ellen Haworth and Jane Craven are now in Schmitt Memorial hospital suffering cuts on their right legs and other bruises. Miss Nelson who was driving the car in which the "Three Little Maids" were riding was treated at the hospital for slight injuries. Mary Aten, the other member of the company escaped without a scratch.

Occupants of the car were unable to say just how the accident occurred. The car, it was said, ran off the highway and over a slight embankment.

It was not wrecked.
The "Three Little Maids" are pupils at a local dancing studio and have gained wide popularity in this section for their abilities as entertainers. They had performed in their usual splendid style in Farmington and were returning home when the accident occurred.

Mrs. Beverly Farrow of Eldred was shopping in the city Wednesday.

Austin's Petition Under Advisement

The state board of pardons and paroles in Springfield yesterday took under advisement the petition of Elmer "Sharky" Austin, Morgan county man, for release from the Joliet penitentiary where he is serving a 25 year sentence for murder.

The board heard the petition of the prisoner, and also read a written protest from State's Attorney W. H. Absher against granting clemency. The Morgan county state's attorney said in his communication to the parole board that he has reviewed evidence in the case and that Austin was convicted of one of the most atrocious crimes in history of the county. He related that Austin's accomplice was hanged for the crime in 1926. In view of the facts the state's attorney said his attitude is that Austin should serve the maximum sentence.

Austin pleaded guilty to a charge of murder after Alva Gimmitt was given the death sentence for the slaying of William Steele, a store owner at Nortonville. Sentence was passed by the late Judge E. S. Smith in circuit court.

Milk Producers of Greene County Meet

Carrollton—The Greene County members of the St. Louis District Sanitary Milk Producers association held a meeting Tuesday night in the circuit court room here. The meeting was held to explain to members the difference in flat base rates and production weight average rates for milk. A lengthy discussion on the questions of milk production and price rates by A. D. Lynch, manager of the St. Louis Sanitary Milk Producers association, was accompanied by lantern slide illustrations in which the questions were answered and explained.

A ballot is to be mailed to each member on which they will vote as to whether the present methods and basis of the sale of milk is to be continued, or a change is to be made. After marking the ballot, it is to be returned to headquarters. A number of questions and arguments were brought up. About 50 members were present.

Leaves for Prisoners

Sheriff Ward Burton left here Tuesday evening for the northern part of Arkansas, just over the Missouri line, exact location not given out, to bring back two unidentified men arrested there while driving a 1934 Chevrolet coach, reported stolen between 7 and 9 p.m. Sunday, near the public square, in Greenfield. The car belongs to Clifford E. Shane, a rural mail carrier and ticket-taker at the Greenfield Opera House.

Most of Carrollton baseball fans are happy at the result of the worlds series as they were almost all Cardinal roots. Ralph M. Metcalf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill B. Metcalf, who is in his last year at U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., has been named lieutenant and platoon commander in his regiment of midshipmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schlueter and son of Alton spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bishop.

Favor Corn-Hog Program

Four of the districts in Greene county have voted distinctly in favor of the 1935 and 1936 corn-hog program being continued at the four meetings held to date. There are nine other districts to vote and the entire vote of the county will be completed this week, when the total count of the county will be made. From present indications it seems that the farmers in this county are in favor of the corn-hog program continuing. Mrs. Temple Walts and two granddaughters of Waverly, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. P.

Driver. The Ladies Organized class of Rockbridge met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. William Rathgeber. John Pryor and Charles McCaherty of Bluffdale made a business trip to Jacksonville, Thursday.

The Carrollton Phillips 66 Bowling team of six men go to Wood River Friday evening, where five of them will play a match with a team of five composed of the Illinois Cleaners of Alton, a return match will be played between the two teams here on the South Side Bowling alleys at a later date. A record high score on the South Side alleys for men is held by Marmon Gimmy of this city, score 267. Mrs. Anita Borger, holds the ladies high score of 266, one point less than Gimmy. Mrs. Borger is also of Carrollton.

HERE FROM WASHINGTON
Mrs. Harold Graves of Washington, D. C. visited friends in Jacksonville on Sunday. Mrs. Graves graduated with the class of 1907 at Illinois college. Mr. Graves also graduated from Illinois college in 1907 and is now special assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury.

leans, La.; Miami, Florida, making New York on their way home. Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Short were among a group attending a house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Short at the Merriam residence in Auburn last week end.

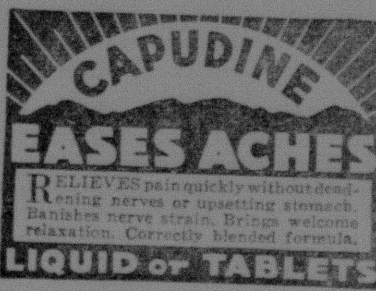

A combined rally day service and church services were held at the Baptist church Sunday with a large attendance.

Rev. K. H. Hein and family drove to Peoria Friday, making the trip to a Peoria dentist, who is treating their daughter, Irma's teeth.

Miss Helen Gregory of Mt. Vernon visited her father and family, Mr. W. E. Gregory, over the week end.

Is This Too Good for Your Cough?

Gremulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven eggs in one. It is made for quick relief, for safety. Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Gremulsion for any cough that starts. The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist is authorized to guarantee it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known. (adv.)

21 OUT OF 23 ST. LOUIS CARDINALS SMOKE CAMELS!

by FRANK FRISCH

PLAYER-MANAGER—Frankie Frisch of the World Champion Cardinals.

They sure made it hot for us this year, but the Cardinals came through in great style clear to the end when we needed every ounce of energy to win. We needed it—and we had it. There's the story in a nutshell. It seems as though the team line up just as well on their smoking habits as they do on the ball field. Here's our line-up on smoking: 21 out of 23 of the Cardinals prefer Camels.

The World Series is over. The Cardinals are on the top. Their astounding achievement will go down in history—a sensational charge from 7 games behind to win the pennant...and then the series!

They are champions—and popular champions. Frankie Frisch, Carleton, Rothrock, Orsatti, Leo Durocher, Bill Walker, Medwick—all America knows this Cardinal team by heart and applauds its stirring victory.

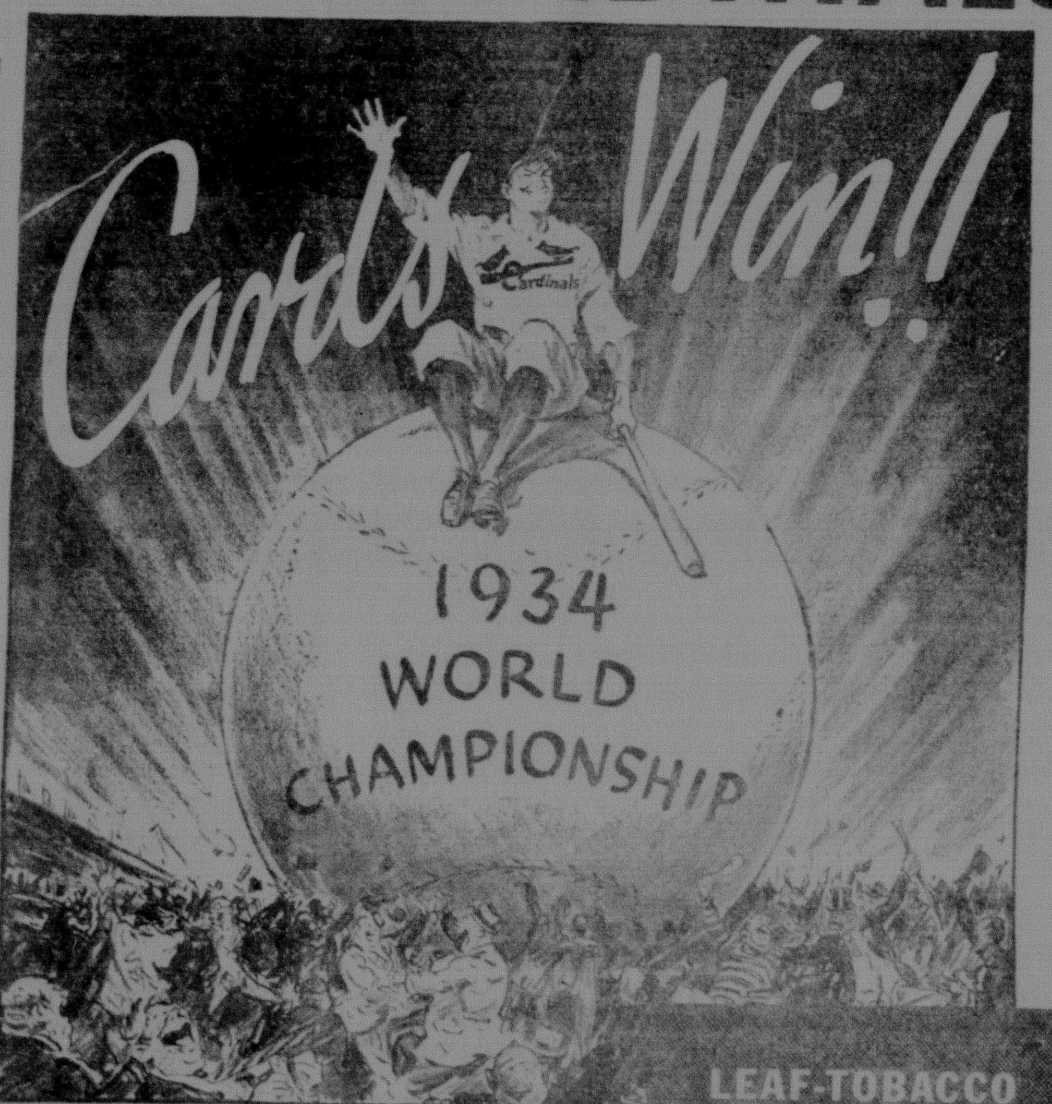

"What do the World Champions smoke?" A natural question. And above you get Frank Frisch's answer. The preference is overwhelmingly for Camels.

The Cardinals' virtually unanimous preference for Camels is worthy of every smoker's attention. Be guided by their experience. Enjoy Camel's "energizing effect" which science has studied and confirmed. Camels are milder—made from a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS. They never get on your nerves!

"DUCKY" MEDWICK: (Left) "A Camel takes away the tired feeling as soon as I leave the field, turns on my 'pep' again."

"RIP" COLLINS (Right) says: "A Camel has a way of 'turning on' my energy. And when I'm tired I notice they help me to snap back quickly."

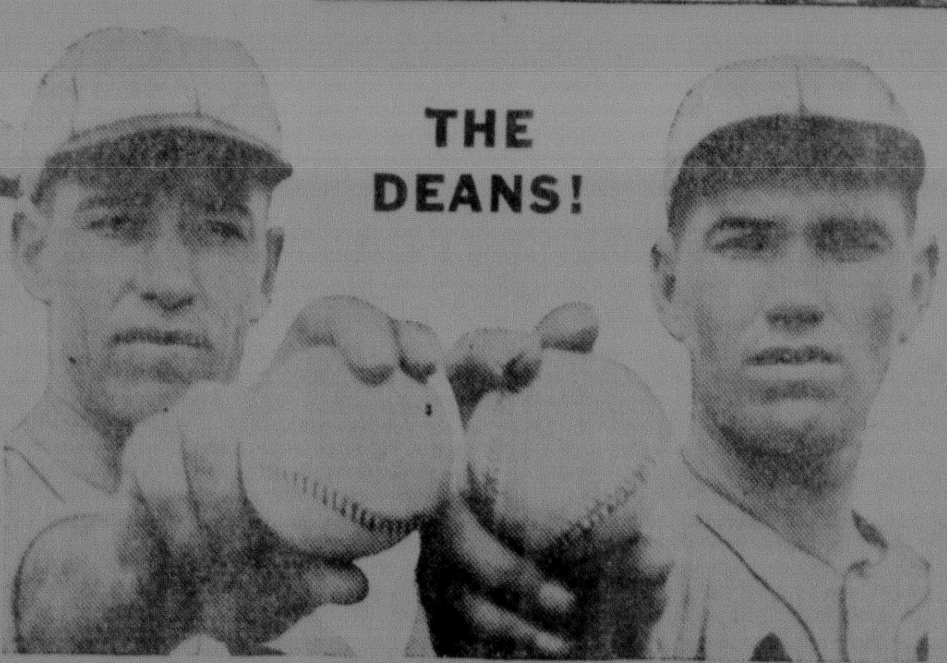

"PEPPER" MARTIN: (Right) "I like Camels because when I light one I can actually feel all tiredness slip away."

LEAF TOBACCO EXPERTS AGREE:

"Camels are made from finer, More Expensive Tobacco—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

THE DEANS!

PAUL DEAN says: "Smoking a Camel gives me the feeling of having more energy. Camels never give me jumpy nerves or leave a 'cigarette' aftertaste!"

"DIZZY" DEAN: "A Camel sure brings back your energy after a hard game, or any time when you're tired, and Camels never frazzle the nerves."

Commissioner Landis Fines Umpire Bill Klem $50 For "Ripe Words" With Goslin

Detroit, Oct. 10.—(AP)—An umpire was fined for the first time in at least 14 years, and the romance of Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe and his childhood sweetheart from Arkansas again was in the limelight today, as widely divergent aftermaths of the late world series.

Kenesaw Mountain Landis slapped the $50 fine on William J. Klem, senior National League arbiter, for what baseball's high commissioner described as "over-ripe words" directed publicly at Leon (Goose) Goslin, Detroit Tiger outfielder.

Landis said it was the 48th time in his 14 years as baseball commissioner he had had to chastise an umpire in that manner.

Of even greater interest to Detroit fans, who have followed with sympathetic interest the romance between Rowe, their "Tiger" pitching hero in victory or defeat, and Miss Edna May Skinner, of Eldorado, Ark., was the question of when and where they would wed.

An attorney who said he represented them applied for waiver of Michigan's five-day law so the couple could be married without delay. Although Rowe, visiting in Flint, Mich., professed not to have known of such a plan, there was a widely held belief that a secret, and early marriage was planned.

Meanwhile, Commissioner Landis slipped away on a fishing trip to northern Michigan after disposing of three of the four misconduct charges that were handed over from the world series. Awaiting decision after he returns to Chicago is the case of Joe Medwick, Cardinal outfielder who was bawling a near-riot that followed his clash with Marvin Owen, Detroit Tiger-third baseman.

Landis fined Bill Delaney, St. Louis catcher, $50 for hurling too pungent language at Umpire Clarence (Brick) Owens in St. Louis, but that was a reduction of $150 from the fine Owen had assessed at the time.

He closed, without penalty, the case of Gerald Walker, Tiger pinch batter, who was charged with casting aspersions at the eyesight of Umpire Jack Reardon.

CARDINALS ARE WELCOMED HOME

St. Louis, Oct. 10.—(AP)—St. Louis today acclaimed the world champion Cardinals as the city's heroes.

A parade over streets strewn with paper and debris of the celebration which began yesterday afternoon and extended through most of the night, was the city's tribute to the conquerors of Detroit's Tigers.

Near the front of the line of parading automobiles, just behind the car reserved for Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann and club officials, rode triumphantly the brothers Dean—Dizzy exuberant, bizarre; Paul, having just as good a time in his more quiet manner.

Dizzy wore a white African sun helmet and carried a toy rubber Tiger. On the long tail, as Dizzy pointed out to admirers, were four knots, each representing a Dean victory over the American league champions.

"Glad to be home, with the world series in the bag," Dizzy said.

"This hat," as he called the helmet, "is to wear when I go fishing down in Deenville, Fla.," which used to be Bradenton.

"Wanta banana?" a loud-voiced youth showed to Joe Medwick, who yesterday was the target for fruit, vegetables and glassware from the left field bleachers at Navin field, Detroit.

Like her famous husband, Mrs. Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean, enjoyed the excitement immensely.

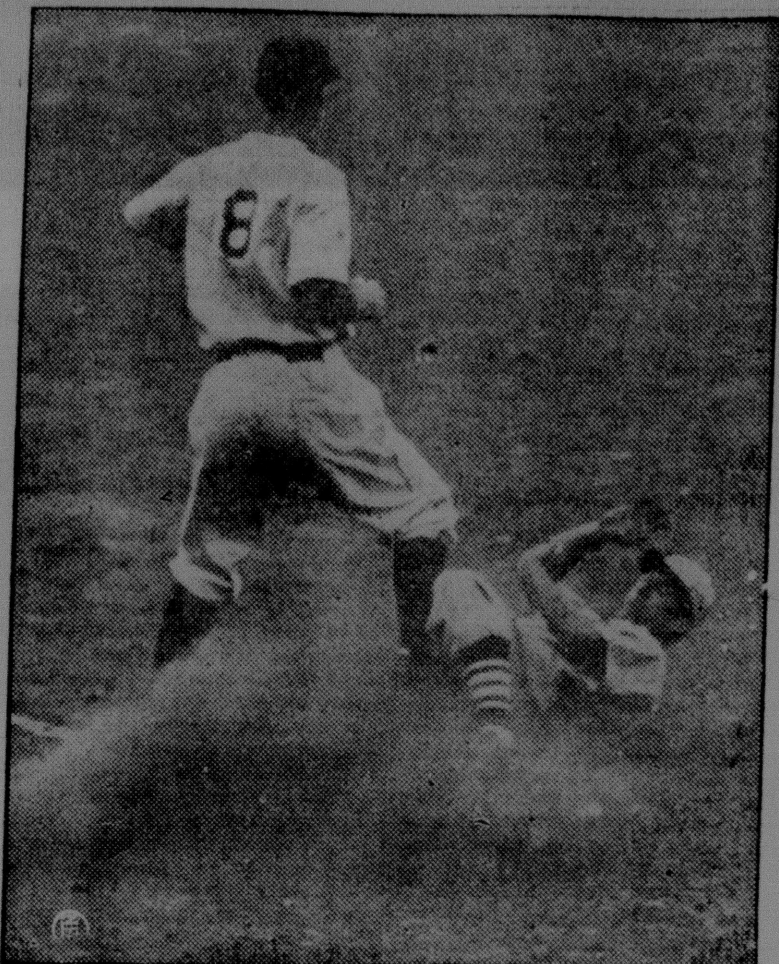

"Everybody was so nice," he said. "At first, Paul seemed to think it rather silly, but before the parade was over he was the worst cut-up of the lot."

The rubber-armed Deans hurried to their hotel, gathered up their belongings and boarded an airplane for Oklahoma City to pitch tonight in an exhibition game. They arrived safely.

Mayor Dickmann, president Sam Breadon of the Cardinals and a group of players and their wives were guests of the Coronado Hotel at a dinner tonight. Later the group, numbering 28, were to be the Mayor's guest at a horse show.

Tonight many of the Cardinals had left for their homes. Manager Frankie Frisch will remain here several days to talk over plans for 1935 with club officials.

This Bump Started the Row in the Last World Series Game at Detroit

Climax of the rough and tumble that featured baserunning of Tigers and Cardinals in the world series came in the sixth inning of the deciding battle at Navin Field, when Ducky Medwick hurled against Third Baseman Marvin Owen as Medwick went into the third sack on his triple to right, as shown here. The pair squared off, then thought better of it.

BANQUET AND PROGRAM MARK FOUNDER'S DAY

of the past, from which the present is made. In presenting President Emeritus Joseph R. Harker, he told the students and friends that the affection and loyalty of the college could not be adequately expressed at the present time but would be rehearsed many times in the years to come.

Talks of Early Days

Dr. Harker's address, "The Early Days," was filled with inspiration as he recalled the historic facts of the founding, and spoke of Peter Cartwright as the first president of the board of trustees. The speaker in telling of the hardships and the difficulties said, "Not a single blot of shame appears in the history of the college. Eight men were on the board and the school was called an 'Academy for Females.' Jacksonville at that time had a population of about 3,000 and the present site of the college was a corn field."

In speaking of the duties of the board in these perilous times, Dr. Harker said that there were three objectives, first to find the funds to carry on in times, which were filled with one of the worst depressions; second to erect a building and third to find a president and faculty. Since education for women was deemed by many to be almost impossible it was an uphill work from the start.

Erect Building in 1852

In 1852 a building of four stories was erected and in 1851 a charter for Illinois Female college was secured. After a period of five years the establishment of a permanent school was recognized with that of men.

Although in 1853 there was a good enrollment in 1860 the debts had increased and the meeting of the Illinois Conference held in Jacksonville considered the question of selling. However in a dramatic session money was given, new courage arose and during the next two years over $30,000 was subscribed.

During the period of 1863-1893 were hard years according to the history stated by Dr. Harker, who called attention to the co-education movement and establishment of high schools. However in all these years Dr. Harker said, "The board members never lost their Christian faith."

Dr. McClelland Speaks

President C. P. McClelland reminded the students that when Dr. Harker came to the college in the early 90's there was an outstanding depression and few students, but through the courage, ability and loyal devotion to the cause a great college has been realized. In closing his remarks President McClelland appealed to the present students of MacMurray to identify themselves with the life of the institution with spirit and service.

During the service the musical program was led by the choir with Director Henry Ward Pierson presiding at the organ.

At the conclusion of the chapel, Erna Emig, student president read tentative telegram to Mr. and Mrs. MacMurray, suggesting that it be sent to them as a message of appreciation from the entire student body. This was approved with great enthusiasm by the audience.

The Founders Day program was concluded with the candle lighting service.

Players Seeking Positions On I.S.D. Junior College 11 Report For Opening Drills

"It seems like old times," Captain Eugene Donehue, star Illinois School for the Deaf athlete, said yesterday when he called ten other boys assigned to his squad together for the opening work-out. Two full teams of boys between the age of 19 and 21 years were on the Tiger field working out during the afternoon, and the squad is expected to increase as soon as additional equipment is located.

Managing Officer Daniel T. Cloud yesterday received official notification from the Illinois High School Athletic Association that the high school body saw no barrier toward establishing a team for players who have passed the high school eligibility age, stating that the establishing of this team would in no way effect the status of the school in the I. H. S. A. A.

Stars of former years are expected to flash over the gridiron once again under the present arrangement. Coach S. Robey Burns, who withheld practice for his high school squad until last night when he took them over on the college field to get them accustomed to the lights, smiled considerably as he looked over the candidates for the junior college team. The high school team will meet St. Teresa of Decatur under lights here Friday night.

The problem of obtaining a name for the junior college team has been temporarily solved by dubbing them the "Illini." The high school team will still retain the name of Tigers.

No Games as Yet.

No football games have been arranged for the team as yet, but there is a strong possibility that the Illini will be taken to Kansas for a game later in the season. In the meantime Coach Burns has approved plans for games between the Illinois College freshmen and the Illini, and he hopes to line up games with other college freshmen teams.

The Illini will have plenty of colorful players in their line-up. If the boys continue to show as they did in their high school days, Donehue, who has been named captain already, has a high school record of football, basketball and baseball stardom, and a little better than average record in track.

Leo Suiter, another of the Tiger greats of recent years, both in basketball and football, also is eligible for the team, and is being counted upon to play along with Donehue in the backfield. Garland, scrappy center from last year's football team, has been placed in the backfield this year, and Beard, another agile half-back, probably will complete the first string backfield.

The giant John Chudzikiewicz, who made the All-American-Polish track and field team which went to Poland last summer, will be the pivot man under the present plans with Gordon and Warner on the wings. Thurman is one of the leading candidates for a tackle position, and Stogis probably will be one of the guards. The remainder of the positions will be filled from the following list of boys eligible for the team: Milbert, Conopoe, Sanders, Kouchkov, Sox, Moros, Adams, Gaskins, Hayes, Permin, Ciscaron, Lowe, Simmons and Lynch.

Discussing the plans for the junior college team yesterday, Coach S. Robey Burns said it was planned to carry over the athletic program for these leads through the basketball season, and to establish a baseball team if the finances from the athletic association will permit. If baseball is not attempted, some other plan will be adopted to suit children of this age, although he said that track would not be adopted.

TRUST, HOLDING COMPANIES HIT BY COMMITTEE

used in this financing and the Trading Corporation lost over 50 percent of it in two years.

The committee contended there were instances "where the directors and persons controlling investment trusts succeeded in unloading their own securities upon the investment companies. This was true, the committee said, in the United States and Foreign Securities Corporation's operations and in the case of Continental Shares, Inc., dominated by Cyrus S. Eaton of Cleveland.

It asserted also that the Van Swerlens through holding companies and investment trusts acquired with the public's money—control of a vast network of railroads, by a "share buying" investment. The original Van Swerlen investment was said to be only $1,000,000.

"The American Investment Trust," the report said, "merely superficially resembled the British trust, for the very factors which accounted for the success of the British trusts (diversification of investment, disinterested management, conservative investments, and standardized management charges) were disregarded by the organizers of the American investment trusts."

From the beginning, the committee concluded, American investment trusts "degenerated into a convenient medium of the dominant persons to consummate transactions permeated with ulterior motives."

"The organizers of investment trusts," it continued, "succeeded in devising a financial set-up which allocated to them a most substantial equity in the company with a minimum of cash investment."

Mayor Neville Miller and Director of Safety Dunlap Wakfield were among the officials who went to the scene. A score or more of police and detectives were detailed around the estate. Mayor Miller ordered all available officers into the case. Chief of Detectives Edward McElliot directed his squad of investigators.

Mrs. William Speed, the victim's mother, was one of the first to reach the Stoll home after the kidnaping. In addition to asking publication of his announcement to the kidnaper, Mr. Stoll had the same words radio-cast over radio stations.

Mrs. Stoll was dressed in a negligee and over it she wore a blue and white checkered coat. Police bulletins gave instructions to all officers to be on the lookout for the car containing a lunette of slender build, probably smeared on the face and shoulders with blood.

Federal agents, aided by police and high city and county officials took charge of the investigation. All methods were immediately thrown into use to find the victim. Police radio and teletype systems broadcast descriptions of Mrs. Stoll and her kidnaper. Nearby river camps and summer resorts were ordered subjected to an exhaustive search. The United States department of justice at Washington was notified.

PRINCE PETER TO BE NAMED KING TODAY

King's judgment in keeping George in confinement.

That King Alexander apparently feared death on his visit to France was released today.

The dead king's seeming premonition of death was seen in the fact that one of his last acts before leaving Belgrade was to supervise completion of his marble sarcophagus in the magnificent family mausoleum at Popoje, the home of the Karageorgevitch family.

TONIGHT COURT HOUSE

Jeffersonian meeting 7:45 p. m. Assistant Atty. General Truman Snell will speak. Democratic candidates will be there.

There were a lot of happy boys at Illinois School for the Deaf yesterday, when they were assured that they could form a football team that would play against teams from outside the school.

Gene Donehue, one of the greater of the I. S. D. greats, signed to the boys on his squad. "It seems like old times" just before he gave them the first signal during a single practice.

There were grins all over the faces of Leo Suiter, another of the I. S. D. stars of late years, Harley Cox, John Chudzikiewicz, Gordon, Garland, Stogis, and a lot of others.

These boys are equipped with uniforms they wore back when they played football. Coach S. Robey Burns announced shortly after the practice began that they were all out of football equipment. Very little new material has been purchased this year.

The Illini, as they have been christened until some other name is hung on them, probably will take on La-Rue Van Meter's Wildcats at the college some of these nights. Burns hopes to line up some games for the boys with college freshmen teams and with other junior college teams.

It is going to be interesting to see how this plan works out. These boys will be required to play under the college rules, in all probability. They will have to use the same training field as the high school team, but probably will not scrimmage against the high school team for obvious reasons. Just what will be the reaction of the high school and college teams, and what influence their requisitions will have on each other, will prove an interesting study.

DELINQUENT TAXES ON MOTOR FUEL RECEIVED

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Collections of $137,737.28 in delinquent motor fuel taxes since Feb. 1, 1933, was announced today by J. M. Braude, associate director of the state finance department. Braude said the taxes were delinquent before the Horner administration took office.

The present policy, he declared, is to cancel licenses of motor fuel distributors whose taxes are unpaid and to start action to recover on their bonds.

FUNERAL NOTICE

Funeral services for Mrs. Dora Davenport will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence in the Orleans community. Burial will be in Diamond Grove cemetery.

C. A. Beavers of Laterberry was a caller in the city yesterday.

Oeser, are all tough hombres to stop.

Pontero is a senior in the high school, coming to Carrollton from Kampsville where he played three years in basketball. He has had no previous football experience, but already is able to kick off over the goal line, and his 180 pounds makes him a hard man to stop.

Jack Cicuto, who played at Routh high here last year, is one of the outstanding players on the John Carroll University team this year. Cicuto will be eligible for varsity competition next year, and he is expected to take the place in the hearts of the fans, left vacant by the death of his brother, Jack Cicuto. Jack died during his senior year in school. A memorial is to be erected to his memory at Carroll.

At the conclusion of the chapel, Erna Emig, student president read tentative telegram to Mr. and Mrs. MacMurray, suggesting that it be sent to them as a message of appreciation from the entire student body. This was approved with great enthusiasm by the audience.

The Founders Day program was concluded with the candle lighting service.

Italy, England Have No Fear at Present of Balkan Outbreak

By JOHN LLOYD

Associated Press Foreign Staff

Rome.—(AP)—Italy's major fears from the Marseille assassinations are of internal repercussions in Yugoslavia. Anxiety was eased today when reports described the assassin as a Croatian. This fact was considered to have removed the gravest chances of international complications.

Some Italian observers profess to see a chance for improvement of Italo-Yugoslav relations through Alexander's death, for much of the anti-Italian sentiment on Yugoslavia's part was attributed to him personally. Morning newspapers expressed regret, but did not profess alarm.

By ALBERT W. WILSON

Associated Press Foreign Staff

London.—(AP)—British official circles take the view today there is no danger of a new European war but that a grave internal crisis faces Yugoslavia. The assassinations at Marseille yesterday, in the opinion of responsible British quarters, were a great loss for Europe because they removed two of the potent forces for peace.

The question uppermost in the mind of London officialdom is "where can another Alexander be found strong enough to hold together the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes—Greek and Roman Catholics?"

Thompsonville, Ill.—(AP)—A dynamite blast early today wrecked the rear portion of the Thompsonville State Bank building.

Investigation revealed the blast had been set off under offices occupied by Doctor W. L. Johnson and Arthur Thompson, a real estate dealer.

Persons hearing the explosion fixed the time of the blast at 4:05 a. m. Authorities could not assign any reason for the bombing of the bank which has been closed for five years.

ROBBERS GET TERMS

Belleville, Ill.—(AP)—Two men who pleaded guilty to robbery charges in Circuit Judge D. H. Mudge's court, today were under sentences of one to 20 years.

Herbert Klein, 27, former Scott Field soldier, admitted robbing a filling station north of here last June. John Corbett, 20, negro of Houston, Tex., confessed holding up an East St. Louis gasoline station.

Bitter Resentment Upsets Labor Meet

San Francisco.—(AP)—Bitter resentment of trade union leaders against the description of their new members as "rubbish" brought forebodings of a tempest today on the floor of the American Federation of Labor convention.

Refusing to let go unchallenged the insinuation that the new members do not measure up to the caliber of older members of the A. F. of L. Francis J. Gorman, head of the United Textile Workers, declared he will move such inferences be stricken from the convention records.

COURT DENIES REVIEW OF SUIT FOR DAMAGES

Washington.—(AP)—The Supreme Court today denied the Illinois Central railroad a review of the decision of the Missouri court at St. Louis awarding an employee, Aaron L. Harlin, damages of $20,000 for the loss of the sight of an eye due to injury alleged to have been suffered while at work.

Hardin said that while he was working as a member of a switching crew at Mattoon, Ill., a hot cinder from the locomotive destroyed the sight of an eye.

PROBATION GIVEN TO BOGUS COIN MAKERS

Cairo, Ill.—(AP)—Three Harrisburg men, Mack Hagler, Olaf Johnson and Charles Sullivan who attempted to make counterfeit coins, were on probation today.

The three men were sentenced to one year by Judge Fred L. Wham in federal court here yesterday on counterfeiting charges but in each case the court suspended sentence and placed the men on probation for three years.

ST. TERESA SINGS BLUES THIS WEEK

Scoreless Tie With Trinity and One Point Loss to Cerro Gordo Plus Several Injured Players Brings Loud Lament At Decatur.

Decatur, Oct. 10.—They're singing the blues here at St. Teresa high. A scoreless tie with Trinity at Bloomington and a one point loss last week at Cerro Gordo, plus a number of injured players are causing Coach Tommy Walsh plenty of worry this week as he gets his team ready for a game against the Illinois School for the Deaf lights in Jacksonville Friday night.

The only thing that appears encouraging at this stage of the training is the rise of spirit among the players. The famous "crack-down" has been put on the athletes, requiring them to either observe strictly the training code or turn in their uniforms.

St. Teresa's team will be light, perhaps lighter than any of the teams the Decatur school has put out in its five years of existence. Kennedy, 180 pound tackle, will not be able to get in the game, because of an injury. Bates, regular quarterback, also is out of the picture for this week's game, and Perry, a guard, probably will not be able to play.

Sloof, 160 pounder, fullback, McNamara, 136 pounds, and Clark, 140 pounds, halfbacks, and Jones, 145 pounds, quarterback, probably will be the starting backfield. Brinkoetter and Cashion, ends; Cogerty and Martino, guards, and Eichen, center. Sneathers, tackles. Daugherty and probably will form the first line of defense.

Daugherty and Martino are the lightest boys on the squad, weighing 135 and 134 pounds respectively. Some excellent material is not available at present because of scholastic difficulties.

DILLINGER "POISON" STILL SPREADS; AIDE GETS TERM IN JAIL

Chicago.—(AP)—Once again an associate of the Dillinger gang has had to pay his price to the law.

The latest "victim" of the trail of "Dillinger poison" that has dogged those who came into contact with the Dillinger gang is Tommy Gannon of St. Paul.

Gannon pleaded guilty yesterday in the United States district court at Duluth to a charge of harboring Homer Van Meter, slain Dillinger gangster, and was sentenced by Judge R. C. Bell to six months in the county work farm.

Homecoming of Missi. Soc. Pisgah Pres. Church has been postponed.

GIRL IN THE FAMILY

BY BEATRICE BURTON

SYNOPSIS

Susan Broderick, young and pretty member of a poor but aristocratic family, is engaged to Wallace Steffen, promising young banker. Susan is exceptionally fond of Wallace but is not sure that she loves him. Although she doesn't realize it, Susan is most attracted by Allen Sholes, the new roomer, whom her snobbish relatives ignore. Uncle Worthing, his wife Edna and Aunt Lottie, still consider themselves the cream of society and will not tolerate any one they regard beneath them. That is why they discourage Susan's and John's (her brother) friendship for Uncle Arthur Culen and his family, their late mother's relatives. A few days before Christmas, John, tired of his relatives' superior attitude, upbraids them for being snobbish. He stalks out of the room, asking Susan to go with him to the Culens, who were always ready for company. Fearing family disapproval, Susan refuses. Just then Allen appears and John invites him to go to a place where there's "real" people. Wallace calls but Susan cannot warm to his caresses. He speaks of the Country Club house he is interested in for their future home, but Susan is not enthusiastic for the reason that the present owners are forced to give it up because of financial reverses. Christmas morning, Morris Broderick, Susan's father, stuns the family with the news that he is to marry Mrs. Hopper, a widow.

CHAPTER XIV

The door of the pantry swung open and Anna came in bringing the coffee and a tray loaded with Christmas presents for everyone in the family. She always crocheted things for them, nightgown tops for the three women and neckties for the three men.

Looking at her, good-natured and comfortable and reliable, Susan realized that if any one person had brought herself and John up, that person was Anna. She had, run the family for so long, always after them with raincoats in wet weather, mended tears in their clothes before Aunt Edna should find them and scold about them.

"Something nice from Mr. Steffen," Anna said, handing behind Susan's chair to admire her wrist watch. "He paid a lot of money for that, I guess."

"His name is Mr. Steffen, Anna," Lottie said sharply, looking at her with disfavor. The family had never been quite satisfied with Anna. She might as well have been twelve hours a day, and usually did, but they were never pleased with her manners as a servant. She was forever forgetting to say, "Mr. Broderick's residence," when she answered the telephone, and she often forgot to cover the palm of her hand with a napkin when she was handing the plates around the table.

She listened at the crack of the pantry door to the talk that went on at the table too, and did other little things that got on the nerves of the older members of the family.

"Mr. Steffen," she said now, all apologetic.

"Excuse me," she continued after a second. "I like to tell you something—in my country on Christmas if you take some stranger into the house and feed him you get the good luck all the year."

She pointed her blond head toward the hall, and listening Susan could hear Mr. Sholes coming down the stairs, evidently on his way to buy his breakfast.

"What I think is this—maybe we could give Mr. Sholes something to eat," she finished in a low voice. "I mean it's Christmas day, and—"

"I understand, Anna," said Uncle Worthing, frowning at her over the top of his nose. "The door was not the custom in America. He seemed actually to shove her out of the dining room with a long wave of his hand. 'You may go now. We'll ring when we need you.'"

The Brodericks held open house every Christmas afternoon from four to seven.

The same people always came to shake hands, drink in the dining room for eggnog and for the first time go away—to reappear at the house the next Christmas.

Urbana, Ill.,—Signs that things are looking up in agriculture are seen in the fact that the total enrollment of 692 students in the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois is the largest since the fall of 1921. It is announced by R. R. Hudelson, assistant dean. The total enrollment this fall represents a gain of 173 students over last year.

Although resident teaching is only one of the three functions of the agricultural college, the enrollment of the farm families. The other two functions of the college are its research work on farm and home problems and its activities through which new techniques are carried to farmers and homemakers throughout the state.

The increase in the agricultural college enrollment this year is a gain of 24 per cent over last year. Dean Hudelson reported. There is a 24 per cent gain in agricultural students and a 24.1 per cent gain in home economics students.

The freshman class in agriculture this year is the largest since 1930, exclusive of landscape architecture students who have been transferred to the College of Applied Arts since 1930. The freshman class in agriculture this year numbers 251.

Not only freshman class, but also all others in the college show an increase over last year, indicating that students are not being forced to drop out of school at the rate they formerly were. The junior class shows the largest increase of any, with 68 more

Ever since her fourteenth year Susan had helped Anna get ready for the great afternoon. First of all there was the fruitcake to be made, and that had to be done soon after Thanksgiving, for, according to Aunt Edna, no fruitcake was fit to be eaten until a month after it had been baked.

As soon as the one o'clock dinner was out of the way Susan always set the table with all the best china and napkins in the house. The bowl of wax fruit was taken from its place in the middle of the table and the enormous outlandish punch bowl was set there, filled with whipped cream and the stiffly beaten eggs, powdered with nutmeg.

The bowl of wax fruit was taken from its place in the middle of the table and the enormous outlandish punch bowl was set there, filled with whipped cream and the stiffly beaten eggs, powdered with nutmeg.

Just before four Susan would take her place beside Aunt Edna and Lottie in the parlor above, where they always stood to shake hands with their guests, and Uncle Worthing would go out to the dining room to see if the eggnog were still in the afternoon, passing it out in little outlandish cups.

When Aunt Edna was not looking he would add what he called "a slight touch" to it from the tall brown liquor bottle in his den, and later on, when a few of his old cronies would burst into song with such old favorites as "She's Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage" and "Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," with their arms on each other's shoulders and looking a bit raffish as they sang.

And Aunt Edna would begin to fidget and send Susan out to the dining room to find out if he were all right. And still later when all the guests were gone, Uncle Worthing would become very dignified and go upstairs, quite a bit the worse for wear and none too sure-footed.

On this Christmas day of 1930 everything went just about as usual except that John and his father were not at home. During the morning Mrs. Hopper came driving up to the house to take Morris Broderick away with her, and at noon John and Allen left the house together.

"Going to the Culens, I suppose," remarked Aunt Edna with her usual sniff as she watched their departure from behind the Battenberg lace curtains. "That's where John always goes when he can't find his way here at home. His friendship with Mr. Sholes is just another example of his bull-headedness. Just because we don't want him to be friendly with him he's simply determined to be with him every minute."

The rush along. Dinner was eaten and all at once it was three o'clock. Time for Susan to help Aunt Edna lace into her straight front corset and powder the back of Lottie's sorrow neck. Time to go into her own blue silk dress and satin pumps.

Soon after four o'clock the door bell began to clatter through the waiting house. The Kendalls were the first to call—old Dr. Kendall and his wife. The door was tall and thin with a high black nose and blue faded eyes. Mrs. Kendall was short and stout and full of talk.

"So little Susan Broderick is going to be married," she exclaimed, holding Susan's hands in her own tightly gloved ones. "These girls do grow up in no time at all, don't they?" She declared that there was not a nicer boy in the whole town than Wallace Steffen.

"He used to be a great deal of fun," Eleanor knew him—ran around with his part of one winter. Such a good steady boy."

Eleanor Kendall was five or six years older than Susan, and Susan never had known her well. But she remembered her, a tall blonde girl full of high spirits, who had married and gone away to live in Akron, where her husband's people owned a rubber tire factory.

"I've just come home from Akron—and you ought to see Eleanor's boys! Buster, but they're—"

Mrs. Kendall chattered on and Susan slipped away to make sure that Anna had plenty of hot water ready for the eggnog.

In the dining room Uncle Worthing stood over the punch bowl, his arms bowed out stiffly because the armholes of his best coat were too tight for him. He had been pouring his "bitters" into the eggnog and a rim of yellow foam on his upper lip showed that he had been tasting it.

The hall was filled with new arrivals when Susan started back to the parlor a few minutes later, and the telephone was ringing above the sound of voices. She stopped and answered it.

"Hello! Merry Christmas, Susan!" Sara Culen's voice, high and cheerful, greeted her. "We're getting together a dunking party over here, and we want to know if there's any chance for you to break away and come over."

What on earth could a "dunking" party be, Susan wondered. But whatever it was it would be fun, she knew. The Culens always managed to enjoy themselves thoroughly.

"John's here, and he's brought Mr. Sholes," Sara's voice said in her ear. "There's going to go down to the store to get some things that I need for some doughnuts I'm going to make—and they can meet you if you'll start right away. Say you will, Susan. Your family don't really expect you to stay there at an old folks' party. Just tell them you're leaving."

It sounded so easy and simple when Sara put it that way—"Your family don't really expect you to stay. Just tell them you're leaving." Susan had a sudden longing to do just as she suggested. To tell Aunt Edna she was going and then start out.

After all Sara was right; it wasn't her party but Lottie's and Aunt Edna's and Uncle Worthing's. The guests were their old friends, and the entertainment was the kind they enjoyed. Not even her father and John had felt that it was necessary to be there that afternoon.

Besides, all the real work was over. The party was in full swing and everything was going along swimmingly. "I'll start right over, Sara," Susan said into the mouthpiece of the telephone.

As she went upstairs she could see Uncle Worthing doing a sort of cake walk around the dining room, carrying a cup of egg nog

FOUNDER'S DAY AT MACMURRAY IS OBSERVED

Candle Lighting Service Concludes Program at College

An impressive banquet and after dinner program and service Wednesday night marked the twenty-fifth celebration of Founders' Day and the eighty-eighth year since the beginning of MacMurray College for Women, founded under the name of the Illinois Female Academy.

After the three course dinner, Miss Louise Sheppard, president of the Jacksonville branch of the alumnae, and of the class of '26, presided and introduced the toast-mistress of the evening, Mrs. Alice Applebee of Jacksonville.

Mrs. Applebee, in turn presented the first number of the program, Mrs. Elsie Self, pianist, class of '31, who sang two vocal selections, "The Song of Marie Antoinette" and "Summer-time." Miss Mahala McGehee accompanied the soloist.

The introduction of Miss Mary Frances Scott, a representative of the class of '34, was next made by Mrs. Applebee. Miss Scott, speaking on the topic, "Founders of 1846 and 1934," expressed the alumnae's perception of the connecting link between the founders of the college and the students.

A vocal duet, rendered by Miss Rhoda Olds and Mrs. Elsie Self, pianist, accompanied by Miss Mahala McGehee, was the third number on the program. "I Would that My Love" was the title of this selection.

The principal speaker of the night, Miss Louise Gates, of the class of 1912, and the present secretary of the Y.W.C.A., of Toledo, Ohio, was presented to the audience by the toast-mistress. The theme of Miss Gates' talk was, "Human Relationships."

The speaker opened with the remarks that "the prime essential of these days is learning to live together," and that in college the students have the opportunity of forming a basis for democratic relations in future life.

Miss Gates' attention to the point of human relationships was attracted this last summer when she was privileged to attend the International Conference of the Y.W.C.A., which convened at Geneva, Switzerland. A group of almost two hundred people attended this meeting, and representatives of thirty different countries. The assembly of delegates made a study of outstanding problems for two weeks and then met in a large body to discuss these questions.

Miss Gates told the audience about several interesting and important people at the conference, and of amusing incidents and unique practices of certain traditions displayed during the stay at Geneva.

The shadow of history seemed to hang over us at the entire session," Miss Gates continued, and illustrated her point by describing happenings which occurred at the forty-five minute devotional period each morning.

"There was in this group a demonstration of what can be done in the way of world brotherhood and happy human relations, if we care enough," stated the speaker.

In concluding her interesting talk Miss Gates painted verbally a picture of two streams, one a muddy stream, signifying selfishness and hate, and a pure stream, standing for high idealism and unselfishness. The choice of either stream was pointed out as a course for the future. "But, concluded the speaker, "if the pure stream conquers, groups like college students must dedicate themselves to care enough so that this stream will be the stream for the future."

The fifth number on the program was another vocal solo by Miss Rhoda Olds, who sang "The Birthdays" and "My Love is a Muleteer."

Mrs. Applebee introduced Winifred Potter Thesler, the new president of the Alumnae Association. The choice of either stream was pointed out as a course for the future. "But, concluded the speaker, "if the pure stream conquers, groups like college students must dedicate themselves to care enough so that this stream will be the stream for the future."

The reading of two telegrams was when made, one a tentative message to be sent to Mr. and Mrs. MacMurray in Los Angeles, California, and the other one a message received from a friend in this country.

Mrs. Helen Beebe Wetzel, of the class of '32 was introduced as the last speaker, who gave the candle lighting toast, which preceded the impressive traditional candle lighting service. With all electric lights dimmed, the audience stood in a body, holding in their hands small blue and yellow candles, and sang ensemble the Alma Mater, which closed the eighty-eighth Founders' Day of MacMurray College.

The committee in charge of preparations for this event was composed of Miss Alice Larimore, chairman, Miss Louise Sheppard, Miss Wilma Range, Mrs. Alice Arger, Miss Amy DeMotte, and Miss Geraldine Mount.

Founders Day celebration was begun yesterday morning at the college with a special program held in Music Hall. This service commemorated the eighty-eighth anniversary of the founding and appointment of the board of trustees in 1846.

Pres. C. P. McClelland in his introductory remarks spoke of the enthusiasm of the present, the hopes to be realized in the future and stressed the great benefit derived by looking back to the wonderful events (Continued on Page Six)

Council to Receive Commitments For Bonds on Light Plant

Commitments for from $80,000 to $150,000 worth of bonds to be issued by the city to rehabilitate the water and light plant will be received by the city council Monday night next, it was decided at an informal meeting last night at which representatives from five bond houses appeared. Companies interested in the issue will be asked to state the price which they will pay for the issue, and give the city a 60 day time limit to furnish the bonds.

Bond companies represented at last night's meeting were the A. C. Alyn company, Lewis-Pickett company, and H. C. Spear company, all of Chicago, White Phillips company of Davenport and Chicago, and the G. H. Walker company of St. Louis, Mo.

The meeting, called by Mayor W. A. Weinright, was the outgrowth of a sudden influx of bond buyers here seeking to obtain the city issue immediately. City Attorney O. N. Foreman, who just returned from Chicago, where he contacted bonding houses, and Alderman Harlan Williamson, who had written to other bond houses, were instrumental in bringing about the meeting for the purpose of hearing what the number of bond buyers in the city had to say regarding the issue, the difficulties in its path, and the prospects of getting firms to make a definite commitment.

Alexander Van Praag, who drew up the initial plans for the city for an application to the Public Works Administration, and who is handling preliminary details of working out engineering and financing problems for the rehabilitation of the present plant, was present at last night's meeting and explained the engineering details of the present plan.

Save on Equipment

Plans have been made to pay for the rehabilitation of the present plant out of savings to be brought about through the use of more modern equipment. The mayor explained to the gathering. He said at present the plant costs in the neighborhood of $28,000 a year to operate, but that engineers had found by changing machinery and instituting a different type of engine, it would be possible to operate the plant at a saving of about $12,000 yearly. The savings would be sufficient, he pointed out, to pay off the bond issue within 20 years, without disturbing the financing system now set up, whereby the city uses approximately $42,000 of the average revenue of $82,000 yearly to pay off general obligation bonds now against the water system, and other corporate purposes.

Mr. Van Praag, in his statement to the bond buyers, pointed out that the city at present has a water pumping system using obsolete equipment, and that the equipment now in use is used to pump water during the day time and generate electric power for street lighting at night. There are no revenue bonds outstanding against the waterworks, he continued, adding that some of the general obligation bonds were being paid for out of the earning over and above the cost of operation.

The plant needs new pumps, a new type of equipment for generating power for pumping, new concrete boards, and other items. The proposed system is to be of dual units, in order to have sufficient equipment available to handle the load should something happen to one of the units. He also pointed out that the city has been thinking about rehabilitation of the plant for several months, and that sufficient studies have been made which will prove the city's ability to pay for the improvement out of the savings, without any rise in water rates, and without any additional taxes.

Ready to Give Commitment

Three of the bond brokers declared they were ready to give a commitment, but the council opposed this move because one of the brokers, contacted by Alderman Weaver, who presented the resolution asking for rehabilitation of the present plant, was not represented at the meeting. Alderman Weaver presented a letter from the C. W. McNear company of Chicago, to the effect that this company was ready to bid on the securities when the city had them to offer.

Bond-brokers will be asked to bid for the issue with the cost of proceedings added to their bid. All of the houses represented at last night's meeting agreed to make this type of bid, and agreed with the council that the average maturity would be 12 years.

The council will decide at its regular meeting Monday night which bond house is to handle the account. Their next step will be to commission an engineering firm to draft plans. The engineers will need about a month to work out the detailed plans. These plans will then be filed, and an ordinance will be submitted to the council authorizing the improvement. Following the passage of the ordinance 21 days must elapse during which voters may circulate and file a petition asking for a vote on the proposition if it is desired. After the 21 day period, is no petition is filed, the city will have the authority to issue bonds for the improvement.

What equipment shall go into the plant if it is to be rehabilitated. The number of changes made will determine the cost of the improvement.

AGED WAVERLY WOMAN FALLS, BREAKS HIP

Mrs. Elizabeth Givens Lays On Floor Three Days Before Getting Aid

Mrs. Elizabeth Givens, 89 year old resident of Waverly, is in a serious condition at Passavant hospital, suffering from a fractured hip, a condition which was not discovered until after she had laid on the floor for three days. Mrs. Givens fell at her residence in Waverly last Friday night and was forced to lay on the floor because of her disability until a nephew, William Givens, found her Tuesday morning.

The accident occurred as Mrs. Givens was preparing to retire for the evening. She had turned out her light and in going to her bed stumbled and fell, breaking her hip. She was unable to arise from the floor and summon aid.

She was brought to Jacksonville by the Swift ambulance and was accompanied by her niece, Mrs. L. F. Chilton, nephew, Mr. Givens and Dr. W. H. Alyn. She was given treatment by Dr. Reginald Norris.

Her condition is considered very serious.

PAVEMENT ON SCOTT HIGHWAY IS PROGRESSING

Construction Extends to City Limits of Winchester; News Notes

Winchester, Oct. 10.—The construction of the pavement on the Winchester-Ashley road was extended to the city limits of Winchester today and within about 200 feet of the end of the Cherry street pavement. A few hours work in the morning will complete the slab from the James Doyle crossing to the Cherry street pavement. A total of 1,000 feet of pavement was poured today which was made on the route to date.

The paver will be moved from Winchester to a point near the McAssey corner and will proceed north to the James Doyle crossing where operations were first commenced. Winchester will remain the base for supplies until this strip is completed. The south section of the road will be paved with Alsey as a base for supplies and if weather conditions permit the route will be completed this fall.

Addresses Kiwanis.

Rev. Homer Sala, D. D. of Decatur, addressed the members of the Kiwanis club and ladies' night at the observation of Ladies' night by the local club yesterday evening. Dr. and Mrs. Sala recently returned from an extended tour of Russia and Dr. Sala addressed the club upon this subject. Dr. Sala gave a most interesting and enlightening discussion of their experiences in Russia and brought to the club much first hand information upon the conditions which actually exist in that country.

S. G. Smith sang two vocal solos accompanied by Albert Hainsfurther, Jr., who played the violin, and Mrs. Smith at the piano. C. M. Danner was chairman of the meeting which was largely attended.

News Notes.

The Men's Chapter of the National Research Forum held its October meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Miner Monday evening. Carl M. Ritter presided at the meeting in the absence of A. C. Booz, president of the organization. A short business meeting was followed by the paper of the evening entitled "The Problem of Liesure" by Rev. J. Fred Melvin, pastor of the M. E. church. Rev. Melvin discussed his subject from a practical viewpoint and stressed the need for training the public to use their leisure time to the best advantage. The round-table discussion following the presentation of the paper brought out many interesting points on the utilization of leisure time. Refreshments were served at the close of the discussion. The next meeting of the organization will be held at the home of Rev. F. V. Wright November 12th.

The Winchester Brotherhood will hold their October meet in the parlors of the Baptist church Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

DR. HAVIGHURST TO GIVE SERMON ON BOOK SUNDAY

First of Series at Grace M. E. Church Well Attended; McClelland to Speak

The first of the present series of book sermons given at Grace Methodist church last Sunday night was attended by a considerably increased Sunday night congregation. The interest was excellent and it is expected that the interest will increase from week to week in this constructive endeavor to bring before the people the interesting and highly important thought of some of the fine new religious books now being published.

In order that the men whom he has associated with himself in this series may have a little more time for preparation, the pastor, Dr. Free- man A. Havighurst, will again give the book sermon next Sunday night. The book used last Sunday night being rather comprehensive the pastor restricted his address to the first half of the book announcing that he would speak upon the last half next Sunday night. The book sermon will therefore be upon Dr. Halford Luclock's "Contemporary American Literature and Religion."

President C. P. McClelland will give the book sermon on the following Sunday
